

APPENDIX A - GLOSSARY

Definition of the 1990 and 1998/99 sample groups

1990: A random sample of 20% of reported deaths, excluding children aged ten years or less.

1998/99: A random sample of 10% of reported deaths.

Admission category (NCEPOD definitions)

ELECTIVE: at a time agreed between the patient and the surgical service.

URGENT: within 48 hours of referral/consultation.

EMERGENCY: immediately following referral/consultation, when admission is unpredictable and at short notice because of clinical need.

*American Society of Anesthesiologists (ASA) classification of physical status**

ASA 1: a normal healthy patient.

ASA 2: a patient with mild systemic disease.

ASA 3: a patient with severe systemic disease that limits activity but is not incapacitating.

ASA 4: a patient with incapacitating systemic disease that is a constant threat to life.

ASA 5: a moribund patient who is not expected to survive for 24 hours with or without an operation.

* The definitions are those in use during 1998/99. The wording of ASA grades 3-5 was modified, and a sixth grade added, in 1999.

Classification of operation (NCEPOD definitions)

EMERGENCY: Immediate life-saving operation, resuscitation simultaneous with surgical treatment (e.g. trauma, ruptured aortic aneurysm). Operation usually within one hour.

URGENT: Operation as soon as possible after resuscitation (e.g. irreducible hernia, intussusception, oesophageal atresia, intestinal obstruction, major fractures). Operation within 24 hours.

SCHEDULED: An early operation but not immediately life-saving (e.g. malignancy). Operation usually within three weeks.

ELECTIVE: Operation at a time to suit both patient and surgeon (e.g. cholecystectomy, joint replacement).

Recovery and special care areas (Association of Anaesthetists of Great Britain and Ireland definitions)

HIGH DEPENDENCY UNIT: A high dependency unit (HDU) is an area for patients who require more intensive observation, treatment and nursing care than can be provided on a general ward. It would not normally accept patients requiring mechanical ventilation, but could manage those receiving invasive monitoring.

INTENSIVE CARE UNIT: An intensive care unit (ICU) is an area to which patients are admitted for treatment of actual or impending organ failure, especially when mechanical ventilation is necessary.

RECOVERY AREA: A recovery area is an area to which patients are admitted from an operating theatre, and where they remain until consciousness has been regained, respiration and circulation are stable and postoperative analgesia is established.

APPENDIX D - DATA

COLLECTION AND REVIEW

METHODS

The National Confidential Enquiry into Perioperative Deaths (NCEPOD) reviews clinical practice and aims to identify remediable factors in the practice of anaesthesia, all types of surgery and other invasive procedures. The Enquiry considers the quality of the delivery of care and not specifically causation of death. The commentary in the reports is based on peer review of the data, questionnaires and notes submitted; it is not a research study based on differences against a control population, and does not attempt to produce any kind of comparison between clinicians or hospitals.

Scope

All National Health Service and Defence Secondary Care Agency hospitals in England, Wales and Northern Ireland, and public hospitals in Guernsey, Jersey and the Isle of Man are included in the Enquiry, as well as many hospitals in the independent healthcare sector.

Reporting of deaths

NCEPOD collects basic details on all deaths in hospital within 30 days of a surgical procedure, through a system of local reporting. The Local Reporters (Appendix E) in each hospital are often consultant clinicians, but this role is increasingly being taken on by information and clinical audit departments who are able to provide the data from hospital information systems. When incomplete information is received, the NCEPOD administrative staff contact the appropriate medical records or information officer, secretarial or clinical audit staff.

Deaths of patients in hospital within 30 days of a surgical procedure (excluding maternal deaths) are included. If Local Reporters are aware of postoperative deaths at home they also report them. A surgical procedure is defined by NCEPOD as:

"any procedure carried out by a surgeon or gynaecologist, with or without an anaesthetist, involving local, regional or general anaesthesia or sedation".

Local Reporters provide the following information:

- Name of Trust/hospital
- Sex/hospital number/NHS number of patient
- Name of hospital in which the death occurred (and hospital where surgery took place, if different)
- Dates of birth, final operation and death
- Surgical procedure performed
- Name of consultant surgeon
- Name of anaesthetist

Sample for more detailed review

The data collection year runs from 1 April to 31 March. Each year, a sample of the reported deaths is reviewed in more detail. The sample selection varies for each data collection year, and is determined by the NCEPOD Steering Group (see Appendix C).

NCEPOD may, on occasion, collect data about patients who have survived more than 30 days after a procedure. These data are used for comparison with the data about deaths, or to review a specific aspect of clinical practice. Data from other sources may also be used.

The perioperative deaths which fell within the sample group for 1998/99 were a random 10% of all deaths reported.

For each sample case, questionnaires were sent to the consultant surgeon or gynaecologist and consultant anaesthetist. These questionnaires were identified only by a number, allocated in the NCEPOD office. Copies of operation notes, anaesthetic records, fluid balance charts and postmortem reports were also requested. Surgical questionnaires were sent directly to the consultant surgeon or gynaecologist under whose care the patient was at the time of the final operation before death. When the Local Reporter had been able to identify the relevant consultant anaesthetist, the anaesthetic questionnaire was sent directly to him or her. However, in many cases this was not possible, and the local tutor of the Royal College of Anaesthetists was asked to name a consultant to whom the questionnaire should be sent. Copies of the questionnaires used in 1998/99 are available from the NCEPOD office on request.

Since the introduction of clinical governance in April 1999, participation in the confidential enquiries has become a mandatory requirement for clinicians in the NHS. Trusts/hospitals are therefore now kept informed of their participation levels on a quarterly basis.

Consultants

NCEPOD holds a database, regularly updated, of all consultant anaesthetists, gynaecologists and surgeons in England, Wales and Northern Ireland.

Analysis and review of data

The NCEPOD administrative staff manage the collection, recording and analysis of data. The data are aggregated to produce the tables and information in the reports; further unpublished aggregated data is available from the NCEPOD office on request. All data are aggregated to regional or national level only, so that individual Trusts and hospitals cannot be identified.

Advisory groups

The NCEPOD Clinical Coordinators (see Appendix C), together with the advisory groups for anaesthesia and surgery, review the completed questionnaires and the aggregated data. The members of the advisory groups are drawn from hospitals in England, Wales and Northern Ireland. The advisory group in pathology reviews postmortem data from the surgical questionnaires as well as copies of postmortem reports.

Production of the report

The advisory groups comment on the overall quality of care within their specialty and on any particular issues or individual cases which merit attention. These comments form the basis for the published report, which is prepared by the Coordinators, with contributions from the advisors. The report is reviewed and agreed by the NCEPOD Steering Group prior to publication.

Confidentiality

NCEPOD is registered with the Data Protection Registrar and abides by the Data Protection Principles. All reporting forms, questionnaires and other paper records relating to the sample are shredded once an individual report is ready for publication. Similarly, all identifiable data are removed from the computer database.

Before review of questionnaires by the Clinical Coordinators or any of the advisors, all identification is removed from the questionnaires and accompanying papers. The source of the information is not revealed to any of the Coordinators or advisors. The Chief Executive is designated as a Caldicott Guardian.

APPENDIX E - LOCAL REPORTERS

As at 1 September 2000, with NHS Trusts listed according to regional divisions in place at that date. It should be noted that regional boundaries have changed since the 1998/99 data collection period described in this Report.

We appreciate that there are many clinical audit and information departments involved in providing data, although we have in many cases named only the consultant clinician nominated as the Local Reporter.
